February 4, 2025 at 4:30PM
Miron Student Center, Room 228

Lee Hawkins is an American investigative journalist and author who was a finalist for the Pulitzer Prize in 2022. His most recent work documents the lives of Black American descendants of slavery and Jim Crow survivors, exploring the intergenerational impact of racial violence and racism on their families.

Participants will receive curriculum resources to help implement Lee's work into the classroom.

PD hours and Co-Curricular Credits will be provided!

Copies of the book will be available for purchase at the event
